What mechanisms are available for reporting complaints, bias, microaggressions?
- University level reporting of bias/hate incidents here
- Graduate students can speak to graduate chair, Prof. Back

What are the outcomes or consequences for reported individuals?
- At the university level, consequence can range from "restorative conversations" to involving Office of Conduct and Community Standards or the UWPD if the university code of conduct is broken. An official log is recorded and published.
- Outcomes/process/consequences at the department level are currently not clear

What resources are available for individuals reporting?
- The University has various support for individuals including: University Health Services (UHS), Multicultural Student Center, and partnerships with other campus centers

Other topics and action items that were discussed:
- Consensus to form a student BIPOC group in AOSS/SSEC, possibly in coordination with the geoscience department. This should help build an environment where students feel included and where they can discuss issues regarding their identity as STEM BIPOC students.
- A mechanism for reporting department incidents of bias/microaggressions is needed, but creating one that maintains anonymity of the reporter and avoids harmful power dynamics is difficult to design in such a small department. Possible solutions include:
  - Anonymous online submission process
  - Having more than one faculty member review complaints
  - Having a non-faculty member be a part of the process
    - Hiring dedicated administrative role for IDE/student liaison/student professional development. This role could possibly be filled by a grad-student appointment.
  - Bundle or group similar complaints.
- More resources should be made available and publicized to students, e.g. on department or GSA websites, particularly incoming students and those who are part of smaller research groups
  - Creating some sort of peer-mentoring for graduate students could be another solution, but a past attempt had low participation.
- Better bystander training for the department, beyond reading examples
- The work needed to improve the department, such as that listed above, should be spread out rather than falling to the same group of people. This pattern happens already, and it should be addressed to prevent further inequity.

URGE Complaints and Reporting Policy for University/Organization

This is what was found by Podlet 3 at UW AOS/SSEC on policies for handling complaints, the reporting process, resources, and possible outcomes. Some information was public; answers that were only found through follow up with contacts are noted.

- The link(s) to the reporting policy at our organization are here:

  University-wide policy links:
  Dean of Students Office:
  https://doso.students.wisc.edu/report-an-issue/bias-or-hate-reporting/
  https://doso.students.wisc.edu/report-an-issue/
  Title IX reporting policies:
  https://compliance.wisc.edu/titleix/mandatory-reporting/
  Other resources:
  https://doso.students.wisc.edu/report-an-issue/bias-or-hate-reporting/campus-partnerships/

  - Are reporting policies regularly reviewed? What is the process for changing policy?
  University-wide policies are reviewed for incoming students and new faculty during orientations. However, faculty orientation is only held once a year (Fall) for incoming faculty, and new student orientation is not mandatory except to complete an online training. Policies are not reviewed in a mandatory capacity either at the University or the Department level. Staff orientation is not clearly defined at the University level.

  - Are the rates of reporting made publicly available (e.g. # of reports each year)?
  Rates of reporting are made available each year in Bias Incident Summaries. In addition, information in any report can be disclosed under the Wisconsin Public Records Law (exempt is personal identifying information such as name, address, etc.)

- What mechanisms are available for reporting complaints, bias, microaggressions, harassment, and overt racism?
  - Who are the designated individuals/positions for reporting incidents?
  There are no designated positions for those who can make reports. A report can be made by anyone affected by or witnessing an incident.

  - Can reports be made online? Where?
  Yes, for students: https://doso.students.wisc.edu/report-an-issue/
  It is unclear where non-student members of the university should report incidents of bias, harassment, or racism against themselves or other non-students (Title IX reporting is the same).

  - Can reports be made anonymously?
  Yes, but it is not recommended

  - Who do in-person and online reports go to? Who has access to see reports?
  Dean of Students Office (specific individuals not listed?)
  Title IX Coordinator, Lauren Hasselbacher
Equal Opportunity Investigations Administrator in the Office of Compliance, Letissa Reid (cases of discrimination)
Bias Response and Advocacy Coordinator, Satya Chima

- Are police included in the process? When and how? Are individuals accompanied by an advocate or someone from the organization?
UWPD are involved when a case may by criminal, e.g. sexual assault, domestic violence, threatening actions. It is unclear how the UWPD are involved. Victims are allowed to choose an advocate to accompany them.

- What are the outcomes or consequences for reported individuals?
  - Follow-up by supervisor, training (bias, etc.), disciplinary action, termination?
  “Responses to incidents of bias or hate will vary depending on the severity of the event and can range from referrals to appropriate offices on campus to restorative conversations between the targeted individual and the respondent.”

  - Who decides the outcomes/consequences? What is the process?

Students:
“The student code of conduct is violated, the Office of Conduct and Community Standards begins their own investigation and will determine possible sanctions.”
The process is further described in Chapter 17 of the University of Wisconsin disciplinary code: https://docs.legis.wisconsin.gov/code/admin_code/uws/17/11

Faculty/staff:
“When cases involve faculty or staff as respondents, Human Resources and the Office of Compliance work on addressing the incident or concern.”

Victim’s rights: https://compliance.wisc.edu/titleix/student-information/#victims-rights
Individuals will be notified of "options for changing academic, transportation, work, living situations and protective measures", but it is unclear whether students can request an investigation into potential impacts of the incident on their grades/evaluations.

- Protection against retaliation or repercussions, accommodations for continuing work/courses, option for pass/fail or outside assessment.

Students: What protection is available is unknown.

Employees: Whistleblower Law: Employees "may not be retaliated against for disclosing information regarding a violation of any state or federal law, rule or regulation, mismanagement or abuse of authority in state or local government, substantial waste of public funds or a danger to public health or safety."

UW Madison has a system of shared governance: https://www.wisc.edu/governance/

By personnel group:

- Academic Staff: Personnel Policies and Procedures Committee is probably the appropriate committee for these topics: https://acstaff.wisc.edu/governance/standing-committees/personnel-policies-and-procedures-committee-pppc
- University Staff: Personnel Policies Procedures and Communication Committee is probably the appropriate committee for these topics: https://ous.wisc.edu/committees/personnel-policies-procedures-committee/
- Faculty: There are a number of faculty committees (that include AS, US, and Student Members) that report to the Faculty Senate: https://sefac.wisc.edu/committees/

- Campus Diversity and Climate Committee: https://committeetracker.wisc.edu/Committee/Details/366

Student: The Associated Students of Madison are represented through Shared Governance. Here is the master list of committees on campus, in the City of Madison, and the broader UW system that students are eligible to serve on (including the ones listed above in the Faculty section):
Cultural surveys, regular or only after wide-spread reports or high-profile incidents.

Last Campus Climate Survey taken in 2016: https://diversity.wisc.edu/climate/survey/
Many follow-up reports since then: https://diversity.wisc.edu/campus-climate/
SSEC is pretty proactive about doing formal Climate Surveys every 5 years and smaller Climate Surveys every couple years.

- Leadership proactively asks students and/or staff for input on how to improve.
