This is what was found by LCC/EES pod at Lane Community College on policies for handling complaints, the reporting process, resources, and possible outcomes. Some information was public; answers that were only found through follow up with contacts are noted.

Summary:

We found in reporting procedures that web access to data and information around anti-racist, and diversity issues are confused and lacking in transparency. There is no publically available data of this sort available with public web access. We have compiled data obtained from different staff members - by explicitly requesting it through internal email.

- Overall impression: It's a bit of a nightmare of hand waving, 11 different places you could phone about different complaints, web pages which take you around in circles.
  - It takes two clicks to figure out how to enroll. How to pay. How to do the things that the college wants us to do, or that we need to do on a daily basis. This is very apparently different.

There are no specific Division (Science Mathematics & Engineering) processes currently in place. The Division is currently undergoing a governance consolidation [Consolidating Science Division (organized by disciplines, EES was one of them) with Mathematics Division (with no specific sub-disciplines)].

Are reporting policies regularly reviewed? What is the process for changing policy?

- A report that summarizes all informal reports and formal complaints and resolution by type of incident and the relationship of those involved is summarized and presented to the Lane Board of Education annually in the Treatment of Staff and Treatment of Learners Reports. Note that I cannot find these as a posted document on the lcc website - perhaps they are not compiled this way and are given in the context of board meeting minutes.

What mechanisms are available for reporting complaints, bias, microaggressions, harassment, and overt racism?

- There are a plethora of individuals/positions designated for the reporting of incidents.
