URGE Resource Map for the Royal Ontario Museum and University of Toronto

This is a draft Resource Map for UofT / ROM Pod at University of Toronto and the Royal Ontario Museum. This was adapted from the “Sample Ph.D. Mentoring Plan” developed by Vashan Wright (Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution) and Karin Block (City College of New York and CUNY Graduate Center), License: CC BY-NC-SA 4.0. Some of these will be resources common to all and some will be questions for identifying specific resources based on needs/interests identified during initial meetings while implementing the mentoring plan.

Mentoring plan (U Toronto)

○ Onboarding resources:
  ■ Orientation for new students is typically held at the beginning of the academic year, and generally provides necessary onboarding and introduction to the department. In some years, this orientation is not offered in the Winter semester, so students starting then may not receive any formal onboarding.
  ■ As an additional form of onboarding and orientation, most grad students are expected to take the course on ‘philosophy and methods’, wherein they will be introduced to their cohort of grad students, their research, and the work of the faculty in the department.

○ Available mentorship resources:
  ■ UofT EEB department maintains a peer-mentorship program (https://eeb.utoronto.ca/education/undergraduate-peer-mentorship-program-eeb-pmp/), through which junior students can be mentored by more senior students, creating a pathway for learning and asking questions that one might not feel comfortable asking a primary supervisor.
  ■ The university also offers more general mentorship resources through their ‘student life’ programs: https://studentlife.utoronto.ca/department/mentorship-peer-programs/.
  ■ Primary supervisors are expected to provide mentorship of their students, meet with them regularly to provide guidance, and participate in the required committee meetings and evaluations. However, this aspect is largely (and perhaps ironically) unsupervised, so the degree of mentorship and supervision provided by individual PIs varies greatly.

○ Individual/Group meeting expectations:
  ■ Individual and group meeting expectations are largely variable and up to the PIs of each lab. Given the lack of standard requirements, in some cases, lab meetings, discussions of journal articles and data, document reviews, etc will be held weekly, while in other cases they will occur much more infrequently.

- It is expected that in the first year of a graduate program, students will officially meet each semester with their supervisory committee, and continuing in this fashion until completion of the PhD Appraisal, after which they are expected to hold official committee meetings at least once per year.
- It is expected that members of the department will regularly attend departmental seminars and at least some journal/discussion groups

○ Evaluations:
  - UofT EEB requires regular meetings between the student and advisory committee (form available at this link: PhD Supervisory Committee Meeting Report)
  - More formal evaluations of progress also take place via the PhD appraisal (14 to 20 months after program start) and PhD defence (at end of program), details of which are available on the EEB website: https://eeb.utoronto.ca/education/graduate/graduate-handbook/

Core work resources

- Code of Conduct:
  - This code of conduct addresses lab policies on acceptable behaviour
  - All members of the lab must read and sign the code of conduct, which should be discussed and submitted to the lab head
  - Code of Conduct can be found here

- Communication plan and expectations:
  - Our goal is to ensure lab members are able to maintain a work-life balance and keep work and personal matters separate, if desired.
  - Lab members should communicate on lab-related matters via e-mail or Slack
  - Lab members are not expected to respond to e-mail or Slack messages outside of their work hours (which may be worked out with the lab supervisor). This includes no expectation that messages will be responded to during weekends or vacation.

- Reporting Policy:
  - Details on reporting policies related to the Royal Ontario Museum and University of Toronto can be found here.

- Equipment:
  - Communal gear (e.g., microscopes, reagents) are provided by your supervisor. Individual gear (e.g., hiking boots, backpacks), however, are not supplied
  - Some retailers with local shops where you may buy new field gear include MEC, Mark's, Canadian Tire (Note: Mark’s and Canadian Tire may be sourced in one go!), Patagonia, and Arc’teryx
  - Because Toronto is a large city, you may also have success finding used gear for much cheaper than new. Try checking out Kijiji, Bunz (be expected to trade for things!), Facebook Marketplace, or a Buy Nothing group near you
○ Conference and workshop participation:
  ○ For graduate students, it is advised that you present at least one national or international conference per year. This will demonstrate that you are progressing your work on your CV. If this is your first year doing research, you may not be prepared to present in your first year - that’s fine!

Community support and mental health resources
  ○ Assistance for Students (UofT)
    - Accommodation - Assistance finding accommodations, moving expenses/assistance https://offcampushousing.utoronto.ca/
      This includes listings, expense breakdowns, workshop opportunities, and information regarding legal rental units/leases/actions and what to do in the event of a housing issue.

Skillset support resources
- What skills or experiences are required for their work/coursework? e.g., driving, hiking/outdoors activities, compass/GPS navigation, swimming/SCUBA, operating power tools, first aid, etc.
○ What skills training is supported through the organization, how would someone acquire/improve these skills? What training is available prior to arrival?
○ Do they need to know how to code? If so, what languages? (e.g., R, Matlab, Python) If they do not have this skill, what resources/training are available?
○ Potential skills/training needed (subject to Covid restrictions):
  ■ SCUBA
    ● U of T Hast House Underwater Club has training courses: https://www.ulife.utoronto.ca/organizations/view/id/2062
  ■ First Aid
    ● Training is usually organized by the university departments ahead of field seasons.
  ■ Wilderness First Aid
    ● Usually training is organized by the university departments ahead of field seasons.
  ■ R
    ● May be taught in some courses but mostly learned through self learning or help from colleagues.
    ● SciNet at UofT offers workshops and courses on coding, the archives of which can be accessed at any time: https://support.scinet.utoronto.ca/education/browse.php
    ● Online training:
      ○ Code Academy: https://www.codecademy.com/learn/learn-r?fbclid=IwAR1x8NQFxnxHptDz58lwHVSZWVkfYKu5H_eZDIndxPqmveYi3drZP6J6QbQ

Departmental and regional seminars, presentation opportunities, and opportunities to meet with speakers for building a professional network

- EEB Seminars (departmental, recurring)
- Atwood Colloquium (departmental, yearly)
- Many of the professional societies listed above host academic conferences for presenting research.

Outreach resources

- EDI at UofT providing a list of resources, including guidelines for accommodating disabilities, religious holidays, LGBTQ career trajectories, materials for accessible communication, and links to various equity offices for getting involved: https://hrandequity.utoronto.ca/inclusion/edi-at-u-of-t/
  - Specifically: Connections and Conversations "organizes campus specific and tri-campus events to encourage cross portfolio, cross divisional and cross campus collaboration to provide a community of support and opportunities for mentorship and professional development.” [https://antiracism.utoronto.ca/connections-and-conversations/]

- Office of Indigenous Initiatives (OII) provides a hub for the Indigenous community and offers several events involving discussions of reconciliation, conferences (e.g. Indigenous health conference), and information on the Indigenous studies academic programs: [https://indigenous.utoronto.ca/]
- Confronting Anti-Black Racism - [https://www.toronto.ca/community-people/get-involved/community/confronting-anti-black-racism/?accordion=partnership-accountability-circle]

- The time tax for invisible work, or “cultural taxation” i.e. the burden put on minority groups to advocate for/serve on committees for their group, is discussed in this article: [https://cen.acs.org/careers/diversity/Making-invisible-work-STEM-visible/97/i26].
- Key takeaway points: “In the long run, the best way to solve the issue of invisible work is to make it more visible.” This can involve including such EDI activities in their dossier for review, as it can go towards their teaching excellence evaluations.
- This study in Nature Ecology and Evolution [https://www.nature.com/articles/s41559-019-0911-5] explains how the burden of inclusivity work falls on minorities, as there are “so few of them on campus.”
  - While most faculty consider diversity and inclusion to be important, more tenured faculty engaged in such work than assistant professors, as those earlier in their career had less time and funding for such endeavours.
  - The paper acknowledges that “finite time and resources could be reallocated if diversity and inclusion were more explicitly valued in faculty evaluations for promotion, especially for tenure decisions.”
  - Their suggestions: institutions must place greater value on diversity & inclusivity outreach in their tenure and promotion guidelines in ways that are measurable, and thus “promote shared responsibility for a more diverse and inclusive discipline.”
